Aftershoot Fair Use Policy

At Aftershoot, our goal is to empower photographers and creative professionals to maximize productivity through AI. Our unlimited license is built for fair use, supporting typical workflows like culling and editing client photo sessions or personal projects. This policy keeps Aftershoot sustainable and enjoyable for all.

1. What's Fair Usage?

Use Aftershoot on up to two devices (e.g., a desktop and laptop) owned by the same individual or business entity, giving you flexibility for your work.

Process as many images as you need, aligned with a single photographer's typical creative process.

2. Fair Usage Guidelines

Aftershoot offers unlimited processing without strict limits. However, we monitor for patterns that don't fit individual professional use, such as:

- Processing from multiple locations at once.
- Using more than two active devices per account.
- Amounts of processing suggesting automation beyond personal or client needs (e.g., retouching, color correction, photo editing services).

If we spot this, we'll reach out to ensure fair use and maintain service quality.

Contact us anytime with questions!

3. Beyond Fair Use

If your usage consistently exceeds typical patterns, we'll proactively suggest options like multi-user or enterprise plans tailored for higher-volume needs. This keeps Aftershoot running smoothly for everyone.

4. Multi-user & Outsourcing

A single login isn't designed for multiple people or outsourced work. Each user needs their own license or businesses can contact us to explore multi-user options tailored to their team. For example, a studio with three editors should reach out to us for a custom plan rather than sharing an account.
